Wellbeing support

“Let it out” service

“Let it out”

service

The number one tip for looking after your mental health is to talk about your feelings, according to the Mental Health Foundation (MHF).

The “Let it out” service is a proven intervention, which allows individuals to process their thoughts, emotions, and feelings, along with exploring coping mechanisms.

The service also allows staff to have valuable conversations and avoid bottling up their thoughts, emotions and feelings or possibly becoming desensitised.

This is facilitated in a safe, compassionate and confidential space, allowing staff to reflect and have an outlet with a trained facilitator.

REACT mental health

conversation training

REACTMH is a tool that you can use to support your colleagues by having open and honest conversations about their mental health and wellbeing.

Islamic support

We offer a range of Islamic support, guidance and advice to our members, allies and friends.

See below for more information:

Revert support

If you are new to Islam and require advice, guidance and support as new Muslims (reverts), we strive to remove some of the early challenges faced by reverts such as loneliness, a lack of direction, companionship and well-informed knowledge about Islam.

Questioning your faith support

We all have times where we question our faith and need a safe and compassionate space to reflect on our thinking. This offer allows you to speak to our learned colleague and ascertain the answers to the questions you may have from an Islamic perspective.

Introduction to Islam

This service allows you to learn more about Islam, and its practices. You will be able to have a conversation with a learned colleague to gain an understanding of the faith and be provided with an overview of Islam.

General guidance

This service is open to individuals and organisations that want to know more about being inclusive to Muslim colleagues.

On-request talks/training (subject to capacity and review)

We provide on-request talks and training to NHS organisations on the Islamic faith and issues that impact Muslim colleagues.
